

Getting started with ESG: It's easier than you think

Online Clinic

Wednesday 7th December 2022

10:00am – 11:00am

ESG is an area of rapidly growing importance for businesses of all shapes and sizes. ESG can cover areas as diverse as environmental management, health and safety, governance, diversity and human resources. Bringing those elements together and understanding the data which provides vital insights into these areas is actually the basis for most ESG programmes.

In this webinar, VinciWorks ESG expert, Nick Henderson-Mayo, will aim to demystify ESG, help you understand the basics, and look at how to build an ESG programme without a lot of resource and investment. We'll also look at key ESG regulations and compliance, as well as fundamental ESG data that every business should have at their fingertips. ESG might seem complicated, but most businesses, especially those in heavily regulated industries, will already be doing a lot. Getting started is likely much easier than you think.

- A background to what ESG is and why it matters
- The different factors and topics which make up ESG
- Sustainability vs. ESG - what's the difference?
- How even simple ESG programmes can help your business
- ESG, compliance and regulation: what are the must do's?
- ESG and data - getting the right information to your stakeholders
