

SUSTAINABILITY AWARD

This award looks to celebrate Member companies displaying exceptional efforts in their sustainability agenda. It doesn't matter what size or kind of company you represent, what matters is that your initiatives are making a real impact.

It's more than just acknowledging excellent sustainability strategies, this Sustainability Award will recognise those that are truly having an impact on business, society and the environment. With sustainability now front and centre for business – emphasised by the evolving ESG regulation and growing scrutiny from stakeholders, shareholders, and consumers – this award gives companies a chance to pause, reflect and celebrate the progress your company is making to improve business as we know it.

For many organisations, the supply chain is responsible for most of their environmental footprint, and this category will consider companies that have helped tackle the various issues facing them. This might be through more local sourcing, using lower emission transport, reducing waste, sustainable materials or renewable energy usage or other innovations that embed the principles of sustainability in a transparent supply chain so that the organisation achieves a significant improvement in the sustainability of its end product(s) and/or service(s)
