Do you know what is involved in an Environmental Risk Assessment? Are you aware of what good looks like?

This workshop, facilitated by RAS Ltd will give an overview of what is needed to meet the recognised good practice of environmental risk assessment using the Chemical and Downstream Oil Industries Forum (CDOIF) guidelines.

The workshop will give a working insight into undertaking an environmental risk assessment, showing you both what should be included, but also why.

There will be case studies to work-through, giving practical application. Hints and tips will be provided, including common pitfalls to avoid.

A 'surgery' session is included to discuss current challenges you may be facing.

Open to all but particularly useful to Environmental Managers, those responsible for COMAH Safety Reports and regulatory compliance specialists or if you have responsibility for environmental risk assessment at any level or would like a general awareness.

The workshop aims to help you become a more intelligent customer. Key topics covered:

- Principles of environmental risk assessment
- Relevant Past Incidents
- Understanding your hazards
- Identifying your receptors
- MATTE Screening & Unmitigated risk
- Mitigated risk
- Risk Tolerability and ALARP demonstration
- Case-studies
- Practical experience – hints, tips and pitfalls to avoid

Presented in association with RAS
